DukeNUS Medical School

DukeHealth

GASTRONAUTS SINGAPORE

A GLOBAL SYMPOSIUM ON GUT-BRAIN MATTERS

3 - 4 MAY 2018 • Duke-NUS Medical School
Level 2, Amphitheatre

3RD MAY 2018

OPENING REMARKS BY:

Andrew Muir,
Chief of Gastroenterology Duke University

MICROBES THAT MATTER

Raphael H. Valdivia, Duke University
Jonathan Kotula, Caribou Biosciences
Xiuqin Zhang, Peking University
Matthew Chang, National University of Singapore

NUTRIENTS AND METABOLISM

Feifan Guo, Shanghai Institute for Biological Sciences
Walter Wahli, Nanyang Technological University
Paul M Yen, Duke-NUS Medical School
Greg S. B. Suh, New York University

DISCUSSION

Iain Dickson,
Nature Reviews Gastronenterology & Hepatology
Jermont Chen,
Air Force Office of Scientific Research
Justin Gallivan, Darpa BTO
Pae Wu, Office of Naval Research Global
Robert Kokoska,
US Army Research Laboratory, Microbiology

THE SECOND BRAIN

John Furness, University of Melbourne
Arthur Beyder, Mayo Clinic
Nicholas Spencer, Flinders University
Sven Pettersson, Nanyang Technological University

4TH MAY 2018

ENGINEERING THE GUT

Nick Barker, Singapore A*STAR IMB
Xiling Shen, Duke University
Hyunsoo Shawn Je, Duke-NUS Medical School
Maxime M. Mahe, University of Nantes

NEUROENGINEERING

Lawrence Carin, Duke University
John Doyle, California Institute of Technology
Warren Grill, Duke University

GUT, BRAIN, AND DISEASE

Karl Herrup, Hong Kong University
David L. Silver, Duke-NUS Medical School
Rodger A. Liddle, Duke University

THE NEUROBIOLOGY OF GUT FEELINGS

Diego Bohórquez, Duke University
Luis R. Saraiva, Sidra Medicine Qatar
Irene Miguel-Aliaga, Imperial College London
Ivan de Araujo, Yale University

CLOSING REMARKS BY:

Thomas Coffman, Dean
Duke-NUS Medical School

For symposium program, please refer to http://thinkgastronauts.com/singpore/or you may contact Ms Cynthia Lim at cynthia.lim@duke-nus.edu.sg